

Yale Hebrew Program

Fall 2018

HEBR 110 / 501 Elementary Modern Hebrew (L1) Dina Roginsky

A two-term introduction to the language of contemporary Israel, both spoken and written. Fundamentals of grammar; extensive practice in speaking, reading, writing, and comprehension under the guidance of a native speaker. No previous knowledge required. Successful completion of the fall term required to enroll in the spring term.

MTWTHF 9:25–10:20, Dina Roginsky

MTWTHF10:30–11:20, Dina Roginsky (Open to all, emphasis on Hebrew-heritage students).

HEBR 130 / 502a Intermediate Modern Hebrew (L3) Orit Yeret

A review and continuation of grammatical study leading to a deeper comprehension of style and usage. Focus on selected readings, writing, comprehension, and speaking skills.

Prerequisite: HEBR 120 or a placement test.

TTH9-10:15, Orit Yeret

TTH1-2:15, Orit Yeret

HEBR 150 / 503 / JDST213 / MMES150 Advanced Modern Hebrew: Daily Life in Israel (L5) Orit Yeret

An examination of themes in Israeli society. Reading includes editorials and short newspaper articles. Advanced grammatical and conversational structures are introduced and practiced. Conducted in Hebrew. Prerequisite: HEBR 140, placement test or permission of instructor. MW 11:35-12:50

HEBR 162 / 519, MMES 161/ JDST 319/835, Israel in Ideology and Practice (L5) Dina Roginsky

This is an advanced Hebrew class which focuses on changing ideology and politics in Israel. Topics include right and left wing political discourse, elections, State-Religion dynamics, the Jewish-Arab divide, and demographic changes. Materials include newspapers, publications, on-line resources, speeches of different political and religious groups, and contemporary and archival footage. Also, this course draws comparisons to American political and ideological discourse. Prerequisite: HEBR 140, placement test, or permission of instructor.

TTH 1:00-2:15